Berlin, March 16 (AP)—Three explosions of ammunition today shattered the Alexander Kaserne building in mid-town Berlin, occupied as a headquarters of Russian military and German civilian police, causing more than 300 casualties.

At least one person, a German policeman, was known to have been killed, and authorities said there probably were more fatalities. A police hospital reported that 100 of the casualties were seriously injured. Many of the casualties were persons living in the neighborhood or traversing the streets. The explosions spread debris over an area of several blocks.

A German policeman said he believed the explosives were in a Red ammunition dump.

Believe Accidental
Red army troops and civilian police sealed off the blast area, near the Alexanderplatz in the Russian sector. Public safety officers of other occupying powers were barred, as were reporters. American and British units sent ambulances and offered hospital facilities.

Four hours after the blast the Russians and police still were digging in the debris.

The explosions apparently were accidental. One version said a German policeman demonstrating some old German ammunition stored in the courtyard accidentally touched off a grenade and ignited other explosives.

The first two explosions were small, but the third was a tremendous blast heard for miles. Many persons hurried for cellar shelters at the first blast and this was believed to have been instrumental in holding down the number of casualties.

WORKERS FLEE BUT POSTS ARE LOST IN CRASH

Workers of the state Highway department who were engaged in putting in a guard rail Friday afternoon two miles west of East Berlin on the New Chester road are beginning to think a certain motorist has a personal grudge against them.

The men, including Clarence Nett of Gettysburg, were busy engaged in putting up the posts and were just tightening up the wire preparatory to leaving a job well done when a car came toward them going east with apparent intentions of taking along workers, fence and all. The workers headed for the nearest field but the posts, unable to move, were "mowed down."

Melvin A. Lucas, Dillsburg R. 2, driver of the car, drove off the right side of the road and hit three of the guard rail posts, pulling them out of the ground. Then his car careened eastward some 300 feet where he went off the other side of the highway and hit four more newly placed posts and pulled them out of the ground.

The workmen, cautiously returning to the job, started all over again putting the poles back in. Lucas considered in the meantime $125 damage to his car, $20 damage to the poles and a charge of reckless driving which will be brought against him by the state police before a Reading township justice of the peace.

DISTRICT BOARD QUIZES SCOUTS

Fifteen Boy Scouts of the Black Walnut district underwent examinations Friday night on their knowledge of Scouting at the first district board of review to be held in western Adams county.

Previously Scouts had been examined on their skills and knowledge prior to being approved for advancement by boards of review in their own troops. The district boards will be held monthly, Dr. Dwight F. Putman, district advancement chairman said, with the board meeting regionally, with one session in the upper part of the county and another at Gettysburg.

The names of those undergoing tests were not revealed but those of the 12 who sought approval as second class scouts, one seeking advancement first to first class and two seeking merit badges, who passed the tests will be awarded their advancement badges and pins at a court of honor to be held Friday, March 29.

On the board of review which met at Lincoln school, were Doctor Putman, Dr. Francis Mason, Dr. Joseph H. Riley, L. S. Long, Frank Dougherty and George Schriver. Snead Cliff, scout field executive, assisted the board in its work.

TWO DRIVERS ABSOLVED OF CRASH BLAME

An Adams county coroner's jury Friday afternoon absolved Norton L. Redding, 31, 58 East Stevens street and Paul Bowers, Gettysburg R. 1, of "all blame" for the accident in which four returned war veterans were fatally injured two miles east of here on the Lincoln highway early on the morning of February 7.

The jury found that the deaths of Sgt. John Dale Kuhn, 21, Cash-town; Joseph Francis Slonaker, 42 Breckenridge street; Russell Knight Bumbaugh, Gettysburg R. 5, and Cpl. Robert Spahr, York street, were "due to fractured skulls and other injuries caused by the collision of cars owned by Charles Kuhn and Norton Redding and that the collision was in no way the fault of Norton Redding or Paul Bowers."

According to testimony at the inquest held in the court house, the four veterans were riding east on the highway about 2:50 o'clock on the morning of February 7 in a car owned by Charles Kuhn. Redding was driving west followed by Sergeant Bowers.

Evening Reviewed
Bowers told the jury the first time he noticed the Kuhn car it seemed to be going north across the highway toward the west bound lane and "it seemed like just that instant Redding ran into the right side of the Kuhn car." Something "appeared to fly out of the crash and hit my windshield and then my car hit the rear of the Kuhn car."

Several witnesses detailed the activities during the earlier part of the night of the four youths who were killed. T-4 Robert Carter, Gettysburg, told of going to a Gettysburg college basketball game with Bumbaugh and of meeting Kuhn, Slonaker and Spahr at the West

Littlestown LIONS WIN COURT TILT ON DONKEYS IN LITTLESTOWN

An hour of hilarious entertainment was presented before a capacity audience last night, when the Littlestown Rotarians played the Lions in a donkey basketball game at the Littlestown high school. The Lions trailed 6-2 till the last quarter, when they scored two baskets to tie the score at 6-6. In the playoff period, the Lions scored again, to win 8-6.

A rule of the game provides that all scores must be made while the player is mounted, so all shots at the basket are made by the players while riding bare-back on the donkeys. Some of the little animals were quite balky and stubborn, and spills were numerous, but no serious injuries were reported. The worst complaint this morning, were numerous sore muscles and stiff joints.

The proceeds of the game will go to the Monogram club of the high school to buy the letters given the school's outstanding athletes each year.

Local Soldier In Post Illustration

One of the feature articles in the current issue of The Saturday Evening Post is "First Stop—Omaha Beach" by Stanley Frank. It is the story of the famous 29th Blue and Gray Division.

One of the illustrations, accompanying the article, shows five American soldiers standing in an archway in Julich, Germany. In the group (second from the right) is Ex-Sgt. Kenneth Tawney, of Gettysburg.

The inscription over the archway reads: "This is Julich, Germany. Sorry it is so messed up but we were in a hurry! 29th (Blue and Gray) Division."

Warner Hospital Marks 25th Anniversary Of Its Opening On Sunday; More Than 26,000 Patients Served To Date

The Annie M. Warner hospital tomorrow marks the 25th anniversary of its opening to the public on March 17, 1921. No special observance is planned, however, this being deferred until the observance May 12 of National Hospital Day.

The land on which the hospital buildings stand was owned by John Warner, who gave the site and a substantial sum of money for the erection of a hospital here. There had, up to that time, been no such institution in Gettysburg. Persons requiring hospitalization went to Chambersburg, York, and elsewhere.

The hospital was to be a "thank offering" to Mr. Warner's wife, after whom it was named, according to a plaque later placed at the hospital.

Important additions to plant and equipment have been made in the ensuing years.

Facilities Improved
The late Dr. J. McCrea Dickson, former head at the hospital, gave 220 pieces of surgical equipment, valued at close to $10,000, and the Gettysburg Lodge of Elks donated $10,000 for x-ray and therapy equipment as a memorial to Adams county Elks who served in World War II. There have been many other gifts, both large and small.

The cornerstone of the hospital was laid in 1919, but the building was not opened until 1921. The late Dr. J. A. Singmaster was the first president of the board of directors. He was succeeded by S. G. Bigham, Biglerville, who served for five years. The late Dorsey Dougherty was president for 15 years, until his death, and was followed by the late Dr. E. H. Markley, who died in 1944. Present board president is C. A. Bixler, New Oxford.

The facilities and services of the hospital have increased steadily since the institution was opened, so that the Warner hospital is today one of the finest and most complete institutions of its kind in this section of the state. The nurses' home was erected in 1925. With the completion of the Christian H. Musselman addition, in memory of the late Biglerville man, its services and capacity will be still further augmented.

From 16 A Month To 56 A Day
The first patient was admitted to the hospital at 11:30 a. m. on March 17, 1921. The patient was Lola Hartman, Biglerville R. 2. The second patient was Kenyette Garretson, also of Biglerville R. 2. The first operation was performed on March 21, the patient being Gilbert Dickson, Hanover. The hospital had to wait until April 2 for its first baby. At 1 p. m. on this date, Philip Oyler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Oyler, whose address was then 148 North Stratton street, was born at the hospital.

Between March 17 and the end of that month records show that the hospital had 16 patients. The average is now 56 per day. There were 188 admissions in February. Surgeons operate now almost every day, and there are between 10 and 15 babies in the hospital each day. The hospital has 53 beds, five cribs and 15 bassinets. There are 17 registered nurses on general duty.

List Of Officials
Others include Miss Edna Garretson, Mrs. Nellie Lawther, Miss Violet Raffensperger, Mrs. Mildred Schaefer, Mrs. Elizabeth Hughes, Mrs. Mildred Pierce, Miss Kathryn Ling and Mrs. Charlotte Tate, general duty nurses; Mrs. Frances Bisby, nurses' helper; Miss Elizabeth Scott, practical nurse; Miss Ellen Beard, laboratory technician; Sylvius Piccolo and Miss Loraine Hamel, assistant laboratory technicians; Miss Jane Stallsmith, laboratory helper; Mrs. Miriam W. Jones, accountant and bookkeeper; Miss Anna Bollinger, office clerk; Edward Freed, orderly and janitor; Harry Sillik and Robert Sell, assistant orderlies, janitors and ambulance drivers; Mrs. Ada Smith, chief cook, and Miss Sara Boyle, second cook. There are also three maids in the kitchen and five floor maids.

The board of directors is headed by C. A. Bixler, New Oxford, president; Carl A. Baum, Gettysburg, vice president; John Hauser, Biglerville, vice president; the Rev. Fr. Mark Stock, Gettysburg, treasurer, and Henry M. Scharf, Gettysburg, secretary.

These officers and the following men are directors of the hospital: Edmund M. Thomas, E. P. Miller, William G. Durbin, Charles H. Smith, H. Harold Miller, Dr. Frank Kramer, Franklin R. Bigham and

Goering Declares Keitel Was Snubbed Liaison Man

Nuernberg, Germany, March 16 (AP)—Hermann Goering described Nazi Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel today as a snubbed liaison officer who had pleaded for permission to leave Hitler's entourage for a minor field command "because I have been eating more rot than bread."

Goering testified for the fourth successive day at the War Crimes Trial before the International Military Tribunal.

Questioned by Keitel's attorney, Goering described the former chief of the Nazi High Command as little more than a figurehead in many respects.

The following letter from a discharged Gettysburg veteran, who asks that his name be withheld, is self-explanatory:

"I am in dire need of an answer to a very puzzling question, which I imagine, your readers can supply. I'm not seeking advice, only an answer."

"I have consulted the works of Mr. Dan Webster, I have tried Einstein's Theory, I have even contemplated consulting the stars, but as yet I'm still ignorant of the answer."

"What is meant by the two words 'Waiting List' in connection with apartments? How does it function? Maybe I am seeking in vain; perhaps there is no meaning, for that is how it seems to me."

"My name is applied to this list and that. Apartments are vacated and filled. My name is still at the bottom. I'm later told that I have been advanced to the top of the list, an apartment is vacated. It is filled and my name is still on the list. . . . at the bottom!"

Colonel Lampert Is Operated Upon

Col. Lester L. Lampert, who returned from service in China late in December, recently underwent the first of two major operations on his hands at an army hospital in El Paso, Texas.

The first operation was on his left hand where the tendons and muscles had started to contract causing a tightening of the fingers and the palm of his hand. Skin was grafted from his forearm to the palm. The first operation was pronounced successful. In two months or more army surgeons will perform a similar operation on his right hand.

The Lamperts resided in Gettysburg four years when Colonel Lampert was professor of military science and tactics at Gettysburg college.

URGE FARMERS TO ASK EARLY FOR US LOANS

The Farm Security Administration office at York, serving Adams, Dauphin, and York counties, announced today that funds for farm operating loans are limited and predicted that loans might run out well before the end of the fiscal year.

"Farmers, both veterans and non-veterans, needing our credit, will be wise to make their loan applications soon," said Clarence A. Myers, FSA county supervisor. "As usual, we will serve farmers who cannot get adequate credit elsewhere."

The supervisor stated that the demand for loans here was 30 per cent greater this year than last. Nationally, the demand has risen 33 per cent. "And last year FSA had operating loan funds to meet the credit needs of only one-half of the farmers who applied," Myers said. "The loan shortage will be felt more keenly this year than last year."

Funds for Vets

The supervisor said that loan funds available to veterans for the purchase of farms are not limited at present.

"We can make loans covering the entire purchase price to veterans who are good farmers and who can find family-type farms at a good price," Myers said. "The terms of these loans are 40 years and three per cent interest."

"Between these loans and other benefits offered farmer-veterans—$65 a month subsistence for single veterans and $90 for married veterans while they study farming either in school, or their own farm or on the property of some approved farmer in the community; and other GI Bill of Rights benefits—farmers are among the most fortunate of veterans."

Takes Several Months

The supervisor said it takes about three or four months for farm ownership loans to be completed because of title searches and other procedures to protect both the veteran and the government's investment.

Applications for loans are passed by an FSA committee of three farmers in each county. In this area they are: O. H. Benson, Gettysburg R. 5; Felix J. Klunk, Hanover R. 4, and Kenneth D. Bream, Gettysburg R. 2.

MORE BRITISH BRIDES WILL ARRIVE HERE

Two more English brides of Adams countians and another war baby will arrive in New York Monday aboard the Queen Mary.

Mrs. Cecelia Ketterman, wife of Harry Ketterman, Gettysburg R. 2, and Mrs. Joyce Collins, wife of Russell C. Collins, 5 King street, Littlestown are the two brides, bringing to eight the number of English brides who have come from England so far.

Roger Ketterman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ketterman, who will arrive with his mother Monday, is the second war child to come from England to the county.

Now Employed Here

Mrs. Ketterman is the former Cecelia Spragg of Cheltenham, England. Her husband, a son of Mrs. Alice Ketterman, Gettysburg R. 2, entered the army February 10, 1942, and was stationed in England 25 of the 39 months he served overseas. The remainder of his overseas service was in France. He was attached to an ordnance unit, and was a technician fifth class. Since discharge from the service November 13, 1945, he has been employed at the National Garage here. He plans to leave for New York to meet his wife and child Sunday.

Joyce Collins and Russell Collins were married December 13, 1944, at Manchester, England, while Collins was stationed in England with the U. S. Air Force. Mrs. Collins' home was in Stratford, Manchester, England.

While stationed at Burton Wood Air Depot, Warrington, Lancashire county, England, for two years, he met his bride while she was employed in a store and post office at Urms-ton, England, operated by her father. After their marriage he was able to visit his wife every day while stationed overseas. Collins returned to the U. S. in December and was discharged December 18. At present he is a student at Gettysburg college. He plans to go to New York for his wife Monday.

WARM WEATHER IS THREAT TO FRUIT OUTLOOK

If the warm weather continues, the county's 900,000 fruit trees will soon be in great danger from a sudden freeze.

That is the opinion held this morning by County Agent M. T. Hartman and a number of growers queried on the subject.

County Agent Hartman said that in some of the earlier apple varieties the buds were between the silver tip and green tip stages, a condition that normally would occur about April 10 to 12.

He added that growers are having difficulty in determining what sprays to use for the earlier varieties with many buds already beyond the safe stage for use of DN materials.

25 Days Ahead

Warm weather the past few days has pushed the buds considerably and all are getting more and more vulnerable to the weather conditions, Hartman said. "A few more days of warm weather would bring the buds to a very critical stage where they could not take freezing weather."

Only cooler weather within the next day or so will prevent heavy damage if freezing temperatures are still to come this spring as the crop is 25 days ahead of normal, he stated.

Crop Prospects Good

Most growers queried said that their fruit buds are not far enough advanced as of today to suffer any extensive damage provided cooler weather comes soon. The buds have been swelling the past few days, they added. While the first warm days did not harm the buds because they were retarded by the cold from below, in the ground, the frost is now all out of the ground and the buds are moving fast.

Indications so far are for a heavy bearing of peaches, cherries and other fruit if the unseasonable weather does not bring a freeze later.

There are approximately 500,000 apple, 250,000 peach and 125,000 cherry trees in the orchards of the 400 main fruit growers of the county.

AUSTRIA SCARED BY CRISIS AMONG WORLD POWERS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

(AP World Traveler)
Vienna, March 16 (AP)—Winston Churchill's Missouri speech and the vitriolic reaction from Moscow continue to reverberate sharply in Central Europe and so it perhaps wasn't surprising—though unexpected—that the president of Austria, Dr. Karl Renner, should refer voluntarily to the affair during an interview which he accorded me at the Chancellery.

"We (Austria) have one main sorrow just now aroused by the dispute between Churchill and Stalin," said Dr. Renner. "The unity of the world is our life and the end of unity would be the end of Austria."

Later I reverted to this subject and asked the president whether he was hopeful for peace or whether he agreed with the pessimists who are saying there must be another war.

"I hope there will be agreement between the Western Allies and Russia," he replied. "I hope that in the agreement Austria will not be forgotten."

I insisted laughingly "Do you agree with the pessimists?" Renner smiled broadly—in the way which is one of the great assets of his friendly personality.

"I find it difficult to be pessimistic," he said, and then added earnestly: "I should prefer not to live to see another war come."

"And what of Austria's future?" I asked.

"What are our plans?" said Dr. Renner. "The republic never was involved in war but we want a treaty to clear up our legal position. We are liberated but are in a worse position than the conquered nations."

"We have a parliament and government which can't govern at all because there are four military governments. Every act of our government needs the permission of the four powers and this is generally too late or not at all."

"In one word, the big task of the immediate future is to fix the international and internal status of Austria. This is only possible by treaty. It can't be done by dictation."

SEEK TO BLOCK $10,000 PENSION

Washington, March 16 (AP)—A bill to deny former Federal Judge Albert W. Johnson a $10,000 a year pension forever comes before the House for debate Monday.

The 73-year-old Lewisburg (Pa.) former jurist resigned his seat on the middle district of Pennsylvania bench last July during a congressional investigation into his official conduct. At that time he voluntarily gave up claims to the pension.

He retracted the waiver, however, after the House Judiciary committee characterized him in a report as an "evil, wicked and mendacious judge," who the committee said, "sold" rulings in his court "for all the traffic would bear."

At that time the committee said it would not press impeachment charges against Johnson since he was no longer a judge and was not drawing a pension.

Announcement of the debate came shortly after Federal Judge William F. Smith, sitting at Scranton, Pa., yesterday freed two of Johnson's co-defendants from a conspiracy indictment charging Johnson, three sons and six others with defrauding the government.

The men freed were Attorney Hoyt A. Moore, counsel for Bethlehem steel company, and Charles Horman, both of New York.

No Immediate Court Action On Pickets

Pittsburgh, March 16 (AP)—Westinghouse Electric Corp. attorneys, conferring on legal phases of picketing by members of the CIO-United Electrical union at its big east Pittsburgh plant, said today they contemplated no further court action, at least not before the first of next week.

Earlier this week, a court ruling forbade mass picketing, or the use of coercion, intimidation or violence at the plant.

Westinghouse called several hundred supervisors, including 400 foremen back to their jobs yesterday but only 22 of them entered the plant. Of these only two were seen entering the main gate, the others crossing a private bridge to get to the company property.

There was a heated argument when two supervisors tried to cross the picket line at the main gate.

5-YEAR PLAN IN USSR STRESSES ATOM, MILITARY

By REMBERT JAMES

Moscow, March 16 (AP)—The new five-year plan for Russia will develop atomic power and boost production to one and one-half times the pre-war level, N. A. Voznesensky, head of the planning department, has informed the Supreme Soviet.

Speaking at a joint session last night of both houses of the Russian Parliament, Voznesensky asserted that "monopolistic capitalism can produce a new aggressor," and declared that the Soviet Union would maintain and strengthen its military forces during the five-year period from 1946 to 1950.

The houses, by a rising vote, agreed to drop the title of "commissar" and substitute that of "minister" for its highest government leaders, and to change the name of the Council of Peoples' Commissars to Council of Ministers.

Reason Not Clear

Generalissimo Stalin thus becomes chairman of the Council of Ministers, instead of chairman of the Council of Commissars. In this capacity he continues as Premier and head of the government.

A London dispatch quoted the Moscow radio as saying that Stalin resigned as chairman of the Council of Commissars and immediately was elected unanimously by both houses, voting separately, as chairman of the Council of Ministers.

(The broadcast said that announcement was read to the Supreme Soviet that the government had resigned its powers. The assemblage, "amid loud applause," then asserted in a resolution that it "entrusts the chairman of the Council of Peoples' Commissars of the U.S.S.R., Comrade Josef Stalin, to present to the Supreme Soviet his suggestions on the composition of the Soviet government," the Moscow radio added.

More Sugar, Butter, Shoes
(The reason for the change in titles was not made clear. Stalin had been chairman of the Council of Commissars since May 22, 1941. The title "commissar" had been used for more than a quarter-century by the Soviets.)

In his outline of the new five-year plan, Voznesensky said prizes would be awarded to scientists to stimulate research on such projects as the development of atomic power. Rationing of bread, flour and cereal will end this year. There will be more butter, sugar and shoes in the immediate future.

Gettysburg Inn. Later Carter and the four went to the Lincoln Logs. At no time did he see any of the young men drinking, Carter declared.

Carter said Bumbaugh had asked to be left at his home when they passed it both when going to Lincoln Logs and on the return to Gettysburg to "get some coffee and sandwiches" at the Greyhound restaurant. Carter said that John Kuhn had been driving all the time he was riding in the car and that he had asked Kuhn to drive a little slower on the return trip to Gettysburg. Carter left the group at the Greyhound restaurant.

Robert Hubbard, York street, told the jury the four had met him at the corner of Liberty and York streets and about 2:30 o'clock in the morning and had asked him to ride along on a trip to take Bumbaugh home. He had said he had to get some sleep, he added, and Kuhn, who was driving the car, drove him the half block further east on York street where Hubbard lived.

Daniel Greenawalt, owner of the Lincoln Logs, said that while the group was at his establishment three had purchased ginger ale and that he had seen none of them take any alcoholic beverages.

Redding appeared on the witness stand but was unable to recall any incident during the night other than the fact that "either at Abbottstown or New Oxford" he had passed a soldier who was hitchhiking and debated whether he should stop and give him a ride to Gettysburg. Redding was returning to his home from the Blaw-Knox plant at York where he was employed.

Dr. Bruce Wolff, in his testimony concerning the deaths told the court that Redding was still suffering from a loss of memory concerning all incidents connected with the accident and that "such loss of memory is normal in connection with injuries such as he received, in fact, common."

weary father of triplets, 2nd Lt. James S. Hendry, arrived at Carlisle hospital early today from Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., for his first look at his three-day-old daughters.

Attendants who saw Hendry after his 2 a. m. arrival described him as "bashful and blushing." Hendry himself was not immediately available for comment.

went with the ambulance to the scene of the accident told of finding two of the youths dead on arrival and the other three injured men.

Both doctors outlined the nature of the injuries suffered by those injured in the accident.

No Blow Out

George J. Evanko, of the local state police sub-station, testified on the location of the cars to the north side of the highway where they came to rest following the accident, and described the damage that occurred. He displayed a tire and tube from the right rear wheel of the Kuhn car which was flat when the officer arrived at the scene. A worn spot on the bottom of the tire which apparently was made by the car skidding sideways proved that the tire had not blown out prior to the accident, he said.

About 300 feet west of the accident there was an icy spot about 50 feet long across the highway, the officer added.

Members of the jury included Marshall Cleveland, Daniel Mickle, Dale Bream, Stanley Whitson, Martin Slade and G. H. Roth.

CHAMBERSBURG AND LANCASTER CLASH TONIGHT

By TOM SPRIVER

Harrisburg, March 16 (AP)—The last two district champions for 1946 will be crowned tonight as the state's scholastic basketball teams prepare for the annual Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association playoffs leading to a state championship.

Homestead with a record of 24 straight victories, will face Sharon, winner in 23 out of 25 starts, for the district seven crown at Beaver Falls high school.

Chambersburg, holder of the district three title for the past two seasons, seeks its third straight district three diadem against Lancaster at Hershey Industrial school.

The other nine district kings have already been named with Allentown, state title-holder and district eleven ruler retaining the district crown and Radnor repeating its triumph in district one.

Here is how the teams line-up as they go into the last two weeks of the basketball campaign.

Retains Title

District one—Radnor retained its district crown by defeating West Chester, 41-37.

The first round of inter-district games are booked for next Tuesday with one playing at three; four at two; five at six and eight at nine.

Reading Catholic Seeks 2nd Title

Williamsport, Pa., March 16 (AP)—Central Catholic high of Reading, defending champion in the annual Knights of Columbus scholastic basketball tournament meets St. Ann's of Lansford today in a semi-final round contest.

In the lower half of the semi-finals St. James high of Chester faces Central Catholic of St. Mary's, Elk county, with the two winners clashing tonight for the Bishop Haffey trophy.

Reading had little trouble taking the measure of St. Mary's of Wilkes-Barre in one of last night's four games, 42-35, while St. Ann's created a mild upset by turning back St. Basil's high of Pittsburgh, 36-32.

The hardest fought game of the opening round found Central Catholic of St. Mary's nosing out St. Gabriel's of Hazleton by a margin of 36-34, with the Luzerne county five scoring 15 points in a desperate last-period rally that fell just short of a deadlock. St. James scored the easiest win of the night, taking the measure of St. Joseph's of Williamsport, 49-27.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, March 16 (AP)—Maybe you thought basketball players were going around in circles all the time—and you wouldn't be far wrong on such dizzy doings as that Rhode Island-Bowling Green tournament game the other night. . . But when the rule-makers gather this year, they'll entertain a new proposal involving circles. . . Big Six conference teams, under the guidance of Missouri's George Edwards, have been experimenting with having three circles on the court and when there's a held ball, calling for the jump in the nearest one. . . The idea is that it does away with calling for jumps at inconvenient places, such as the corners, without taking up much more time. . . Another idea that may come up is to shoot all fouls as technicals, followed by a center jump, to avoid the waste of time that comes from sorting out players as they line up for the free throw.

SHORTS AND SHELLS

The steel for the new lighting towers at Yankee stadium is being shipped from California. If it follows the Joe DiMaggio example, it will hold out for a couple of seasons. . . The Syracuse U. basketball team which plays in the garden tournament tonight broke every Syracuse cage record except won-loss percentage this season. . . Barney Ross is tossing a party Monday to celebrate his debut in the toy business. . . For the first time in about a decade, an official golf guide will be published this year. Golfers who have been eussing synthetic balls probably will claim it isn't as long off the tee as the pre-war books. . .

WEAK END ITEM

President Al Houghton of the Canadian-American league has compiled thumbnail sketches of each of his umpires for the enlightenment of fans, who like to know who they're hollering at. . . Hope AI included something on their tastes in vegetables.

Tennis Championship May Leave States

New York, March 16 (AP)—A major tennis championship was in danger of going to South America today for the first time since 1937, and this country's second ranking player would be around to prevent it. McNeill, ex-naval officer who took several titles out of South America while stationed there during the war, blasted his way into the finals last night by truncing Alejo Russell of Buenos Aires, 6-2, 6-1, 6-3.

At the same time, Segura scored the major upset of the season by dumping Billy Talbert of Wilmington, Del., second ranking player of the United States and top-seeded entrant here, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

STRANGE TALE ABOUT SKIPPER WHO FEARED SEA

By HAL BOYLE

Cairo, March 16 (AP)—Traveling abroad, you meet so many people they begin to look as much alike as ducks in a shooting gallery—all moved by the same mechanism and going the same way with the same set expression.

"They forget you. You forget them. The only guy who remembers the occasion is the one who picked up the dinner check.

But there are a few odd ones that get filed in stray corners of your brain and pop out in memory some time like clothes from an overcrowded truck. Such was the young Russian in Hong Kong who used to lie abed of mornings and shoot cockroaches off the ceiling with a rifle. Or the army nurse at Tebessa who called the hospital ward for head injuries "the cabbage patch." Or the barber in Naples who gave free shampoos to men with blue beards.

Sure of Disaster

Such certainty was "the captain who was afraid of the sea." We traveled as passengers together through the north Atlantic during wartime and the captain lived in mortal dread of submarines. Before the war he had commanded small steamers plying the American east coast and many of his friends from those peaceful times had gone under when German torpedoes began reaching across the Atlantic.

Their watery deaths were in his mind when he was summoned to Britain on a shipping mission. From the start of our voyage he was certain our convoy was doomed. I never knew a man who mentally explored more thoroughly his prospects of dying. His morbid certainty of disaster was increased when he noted we were the tail end of the convoy.

"We will never reach England," he said. "We will be one of the first ships the submarines pick off."

Destroyer Hit

He was a dark, morose man of middle age who picked at his food as though he were afraid it was poisoned. At night he threw himself fully clothed on his bunk and lay there wide awake, staring at the bunk above him with weary eyes until after daybreak.

"They usually hit just before dawn," he said.

Then one mild and cloudless afternoon we heard a muffled explosion and saw a tower of smoke rise from the stern of a destroyer escort to starboard. Our convoy moved on and another escort went back to stay with the crippled vessel. Later, our radio operator said he had overheard messages indicating seven men had been killed in the explosion.

After that my captain acquaintance stayed on deck each day until after dusk staring into the darkening waters.

Bombs Didn't Bother Him
"You can't see them coming at you," he said, "and I can't swim. We are helpless as worms on the pavement."

It was strangely disquieting to see this man gripped by fear of the sea that had been his highway and livelihood for 30 years.

When we landed safely in Britain he bought two hams from the steward and bartering and headed happily for London, self assured, his gloom gone.

"Aren't you worried about bombs?" I asked.

"As long as they don't come at me from under the sea I'm not afraid," he said cheerfully. "I just can't stand the thought of dying at sea."

dori, York street, now serving in the maritime service, is an enthusiastic lover of Ireland as the following excerpts from a recent letter to his parents attest:

"I won't rave about it too much in this letter because it will take too much time. I can well understand why an Irishman is loyal to the old country. It's like something dreamed about, but not forgotten so quickly.

"I can best describe that part of Ireland I saw as quaint, lovely, picturesque, homey, serene and hospitable and still under-rate it. I heard an Irishwoman describe it perfectly. She said: "Say a harsh word to a Mick and he's ready to fight. Say a soft word and he'll cry his eyes out. I'd say that is pretty conclusive. They're gay and care-free, which, I suppose appeals to an American."

Chester C. Davis, organizing chairman of the Famine Emergency committee, released today, in behalf of the committee, a statement urging the planting of Victory Gardens in 1946 to increase the food supply.

"In releasing more wheat, fats, oils, and other critically needed foods for shipment to starving people abroad, we recognize the essential part that the Victory Garden production will play in helping to provide food for the people of America," Mr. Davis said. "An abundance of nutritious home-grown food will permit much greater shipment of the food items so critically needed abroad.

"The President and the Secretary of Agriculture have called for full effort again this year by the Victory Gardeners of the nation. This Famine Emergency Committee considers the Victory Garden production as one of the important parts of this entire emergency food program. This is a definite and positive way in which a large percentage of our citizens can help in relieving the suffering of the starving people of the world."

LEWIS 'SHOCKED' ABOUT KOPPERS

Washington, March 16 (AP)—A mine union official declared Friday that regulations on some company-owned houses prohibit the parents of a tenant from visiting the home without company permission.

William Blizard, a West Virginia president of the United Mine Workers, told the bituminous district president of the United Mine Workers, told the bituminous wage conference that the Koppers Coal company has such provisions in its leases.

John L. Lewis, feigning incredulity, rose on the conference floor to ask Blizard: "Are you serious in saying that the Koppers Coal company undertakes to regulate what visitors a family might have?"

Blizard replied yes.

"American citizens?" asked Lewis. Again Blizard nodded.

"The Koppers company is owned and controlled by the Mellon family?" Lewis continued.

"That's my understanding," said Blizard, president of District 17.

"The Mellon family is one of our best economic families which gave $50,000,000 to our government to house pictures in an art gallery?" Lewis asked.

MILK HELPS OLDSTERS DO THINGS THE YOUNG WAY!
MILK . . . THE LIFETIME FOOD
MILK is more than a delicious drink; it is the most valuable of all foods. For growth and maintenance of vigor and vitality our bodies need proteins, food energy, minerals and vitamins—and MILK provides important amounts of all these essential food factors, except for one . . . REGULAR MILK CONTAINS LITTLE VITAMIN D. To enable children and adults, alike, to make better use of milk's health-protective calcium and phosphorus, 400 U.S.P. units of Vitamin D are added to our regular whole milk. It's homogenized and pasteurized too. This means it's more delicious, creamier lasting, more quickly digested. There's cream, better taste—and Vitamin D—in every drop.

Nutritionists recommend that children drink 3 to 4 glasses, adults 2 or more glasses of Vitamin D Milk each day. So, today, start giving your family this better tasting milk that's better for them. Phone, write or tell our routeman to leave it regularly.

OLD FANCY

When in sleep the baby smiles, in a baby's lovely way,
'Tis the angels talking to it, so the Irish used to say.
'Tis the angels that are whispering what the grown-ups cannot hear—Something very, very pretty in the little darling's ear.

Oh it's just a pretty fancy, but I think it may be so.
Since the baby cannot tell us, true or not, we'll never know
But a smiling, sleeping baby is so beautiful to see That the angels may be talking in believable to me.

As you're bending o'er the cradle when your little one's asleep
And you're pulling back the covers just to get a better peep,
If you see a smile come playing on those chubby cheeks of pink,
That the angels then are talking in is comfortable to think.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BE TOLERANT AND BE LOVED

Intolerance is the great curse of this world. I doubt very much that there would have been this tragic world war—or any war, for that matter—had genuine tolerance ruled.

The published so-called will of Adolf Hitler reeked with intolerance.
Blaming everyone else for the war but himself, he said he never wanted war—that "it was wanted and provoked exclusively by those international statesmen who either were of Jewish origin or worked for Jewish interests." And now that this war is over, there still remains intolerance, both in our own beloved country and among many nations of the world.

Both Hitler and Mussolini had a wonderful opportunity to prove themselves great leaders and constructive statesmen, but intolerance and love of power overcame them.

My father was a minister and was opposed to all secret societies, but he never advertised the fact. One day he stood talking to his superintendent of the Sunday school, who was a rabid Mason. He talked and talked of its great merits and advantages, but my father merely noded, saying not a word. After the talk was over, I asked my father why he didn't answer the superintendent. His reply was: "It would have done no good—only have caused bitterness. He has a right to his honest belief and convictions.
His membership in the Masonic order makes him happy, so why disturb it?"

Sir W. Robertson Nichol, a great English editor in his day, and a famous reviewer of books, tells in his book "Books and Men" of a critic who unmercifully criticized a book that was just published, written by a woman who in former years was a great favorite, but this latest book of hers was written under trying circumstances. She was dying of cancer—but lived to read that review. Had her caustic reviewer but known, he could have brought great happiness into her last hours!

We never know where our words will lodge, when uttered or written.
If they have a bitter sting to them, or express intolerance, the wound
they may open, or the hurt of heart they may cause, can never be adequately forgiven. We never know what another harbors in his heart.
To be kindly, understanding, and generously tolerant is to be loved by all.

Germany Given Opportunity to Change Front, London, March 14
(AP)—The British government, fighting for time to allow Adolf Hitler a final opportunity to reconsider in the face of stern French demands for sanctions, succeeded Friday night in delaying action on his re-militarization of the Rhineland for at least several days.

It was emphasized nothing can be done for the moment until it is seen whether Adolf Hitler will make a gesture of conciliation or continue deaf to British appeals for one.

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.
by FREDERICK C. RUSSELL
Member S.A.E.

The trouble is too many motorists go on the theory that if the brakes don't work the trick is to hit something cheap.

Pointer On The Pump

That oil pump on your car may not have a gasket between its body and cover, but if it is the type requiring one be sure that the thickness of the gasket is considered because this determines the clearance between the pump gear itself and the pump cover. In any event, gasket or no gasket, there must be a very perfect seal between the body and its cover, otherwise there won't be sufficient suction for efficient pump action.

Something New to Learn

Believe it or let it pass with the scenery our gasoline is a bit too good these days — so good that it is quite apt to give trouble in the process of warming up the engine.
Perhaps you have already noticed a marked tendency for the engine to stall a lot while you are turning and twisting in the driveway. Possibly you also have had trouble getting the engine to run properly when it re-starts. All this indicates over-choking — that is, for the kind of super-gas we now use.

And how to meet the problem?
Well, I've solved it in my own case by refraining from pumping on the accelerator pedal during these critical first five minutes of running.
In fact, I try to drive with the hand control of the throttle as much as possible. By setting this for fast idling I find that it is sufficient to power the engine for the twists and turns. In this way the carburetor's acceleration pump doesn't come into action, and the engine operates with far less risk of overloading.

Three To Think Over

When you think that the brakes grab you'll invariably find that just one brake is kicking up the rumpus.

Even with hydraulic brakes there are plenty of opportunities for lack of equalization. It may be just a matter of the tire on one wheel not having as much tread as the others. One tire may be half de-fated, causing the brake on its wheel to hold more than the others.
There can be considerable variation as a result of grease or oil on one or two brake drums.

Steady driving is an aid to better oil mileage. Erratic opening and closing of the throttle causes vacuum within the cylinders, oil being thus encouraged to suck up from the crankcase.

If you have been using cooler plugs to counteract the heating effect of excessive carbon, and then have had the carbon removed, it may be advisable to go back to the original heat type of plug again.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

"When you have to kick down on the accelerator pedal in order to get the throttle closed to the idling position the chances are that the throttle shaft is binding so that the throttle sticks in a partially open position. In some cases the hinge of the accelerator is found to be rusty or the floor mat may be bunched up under the pedal, but count the throttle itself as the seat of most of such trouble.

"In a recent case of this sort
I found that the owner had done a very tricky job of replacing a weak throttle return spring. He had hooked it up in such a way that it pressed against part of the choke control linkage. Only by opening the throttle wide and letting the thing snap back could he get the throttle back to complete idling position again."

Meaning of the Fireworks

Mild explosions in the exhaust when the car is going downhill with the throttle closed usually indicate spasmodic missing of the spark plugs. This will be a tip-off that the points have too wide a gap.

Such explosions also mean that the carburetor mixture is too rich or too lean, some of the unburned gas vapor collecting in the muffler or exhaust and firing there. Faulty valve action will have a similar effect in the exhaust. This usually can be cleared up by freezing the valves, if they are gummy, or making a tappet readjustment if there isn't sufficient clearance.

May Happen To You

If you are one of many who have had new oil retainers installed on an effort to check loss of oil past the rear main engine bearing, only to have the thing leak as badly as before, better keep in mind the fact that where a cork gasket is used for this sealing it is important to operate the engine slowly when first starting it. This rule is apt to be violated even in the best of shops if the mechanic who did the work or the manager doesn't happen to be around when the owner comes to get his car.

Parade of the Cars

The man Floyd Clymer, father of a long series of fascinating books about cars most of the world has forgotten, is out with a new one that ought to be even more popular than the rest. In this volume the California motor historian aims to picture and describe all the cars that have been produced in America, together with miscellaneous developments along the 50-year way.

First surprise of Motor Scrapbook Number 3 is the impressively attractive styling of some of the cars that are no more. A Mercer Race-about would thrill any modern lad;
likewise the Kissle Kar Gold Bug,
the Dagmar or any of the Locomo-biles. The 1929 Ruxton is smart looking and was one of the early front drive jobs. Any of the Stutz Bearcats would take the 1946 eye.

Easier Mind On Trip

For those who go touring with the car two things should be jotted down as essential because they are so easily overlooked. One is to notify the local police that you are to be away from your home and that no one has been authorized to back up a truck and move out the furniture while you're gone. The other is to visit your local insurance agent and get a list of the claim offices of your insurance company in the cities along your projected route.
Should you run into any difficulties en route it is a good idea to have the names and addresses of those who stand ready to help you.

Rule For Charging Rate

Doubtless you have noticed that when the engine is first started up the generator charging rate is higher than normal. Also you may have observed that on a cold day the charging rate is even higher during this warm-up period. Now perhaps you'd like to know just how this actually is figured by electrical men.

For every 15 degree drop in temperature below 70 degrees Fahrenheit the generator will charge one ampere more. Above 70 the charging is one ampere less for each 15 degree rise. Thus at 5 degrees below zero the charging rate would be 5 amperes more until the generator reaches normal operating temperature. At 85 on a summer day the rate will be down one ampere.

Queries of the Week

Q. I am going to blow out the gas line of my car in order to check a tendency for the engine to run out of gas. Have been told not to use the air from a filling station tire pump. Why not? H. L. S.

A. Compressed air is likely to have moisture in it. Use an ordinary bicycle pump.

Q. I have no desire to drive fast but in a recent test I noticed that the job is definitely limited to a top speed of 55 miles per hour. That must indicate trouble which I naturally want to correct. The fuel pump has been tested and found to be providing enough gas. Wm D.

80,000 IDLE IN STRIKES ACROSS PENNSYLVANIA

(By The Associated Press)

Pennsylvania's strike idle numbered approximately 80,000 today with prospects of a week-end reduction at meetings of 11,000 General Electric company workers to ratify settlement of their walkout.

GE and the executive board of United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (CIO) agreed earlier in the week to an 18 1/2-cent-an-hour wage boost. Locals claiming 5,000 members in Philadelphia and 6,000 in Erie meet today to vote on ratification.

Largest group of idle workers is in western Pennsylvania where 28,000 Westinghouse Electric corporation workers—23,000 in the Pittsburgh area and 5,000 at the transformer division at Sharon—have been on strike since January 14 in a wage dispute. Another 10,000 Westinghouse workers are idle in the remainder of the state, 8,000 in Philadelphia alone. All are represented by the UERMWA.

15,000 Steelworkers Idle
A total of 31,200 Pennsylvania United Steelworkers of America (CIO) members are still on strike, although both "big steel" and "little steel" companies have signed. Most of the idle steelworkers are employees of fabricating plants.

Approximately 15,000 of the idle steelworkers are in the Pittsburgh area. At Baldwin Locomotive works, Eddystone, 11,000 are on strike and another 4,000 are out in the remainder of the Philadelphia area. Central Iron and Steel company, Harrisburg, employing 1,200, has been closed since January 21 when the steel strike began.

Four Baldwin CIO locals are scheduled to meet today at Philadelphia to discuss contract negotiations. Company and union officials plan to continue negotiations tomorrow.

Less than 1,000 United Automobile Workers (CIO) in Pennsylvania are affected by national settlement of the General Motors strike which granted workers an 18 1/2-cent-an-hour increase.

Local Issues

In Philadelphia, Samuel Schervone, president of Local 585, UAW, announced picketing will continue at General Motors parts warehouse and the United Motors Service company, a GM subsidiary. He said there are local issues to be negotiated before a ratification meeting is called. A total of 165 employees are out at both plants.

Oldest strike in the state is that of 700 Federation of Food, Tobacco and Agricultural Workers (CIO) at the Philadelphia plant of the American Tobacco company, idle since last October 15. The union demands a 25-cent-an-hour increase and 65-cent-an-hour minimum.

U. S. Conciliator William F. Cann is trying to arrange a meeting next Tuesday between eight Philadelphia Tugboat company operators and representatives of United Harbor Workers, a district 50, AFL-United Mine Workers affiliate, in an effort to settle a strike which began Wednesday, partially crippling the Philadelphia port. The operators claim the walkout resulted from a union jurisdictional dispute.

MANY CITIES TO USE 'FAST' TIME

Harrisburg, March 16 (P)—Seven Pennsylvania cities will go on Daylight Saving Time next month and similar action is probable in 52 other communities, the state Chamber of Commerce reported today.

Eight other places have rejected "fast time," however, while action by 21 others was doubtful and authorities of 40 municipalities said action could not be forecast.

Communities reporting adoption of Daylight Time were Brockway, Coatesville, Erie, Harrisburg, Indiana, Philadelphia and Stroudsburg.

Listed as probable were Aliquippa, Allentown, Ardmore, Arnold, Beaver Falls, Bedford, Berwyn, Bethlehem, Bloomsburg, Braddock, Canonsburg, Carnegie, Catasauqua, Chester, Corry, Croydon, Doylestown, Easton, Embleton, Franklin, Greensburg, Greenville, Hatboro, Hershey, Homestead, Kennett Square, Kittanning,

CHURCHILL ASKS UNO DECISION ON WORLD ISSUES

By NATHAN POLOWETZKY
New York, March 16 (AP)—Winston Churchill called upon the Soviet Union last night to insure continuance of war-born sympathy of the English-speaking world for the Russian people by submitting its international problems to the United Nations Security Council.

"If the Soviet government does not take advantage of this (Anglo-American) sentiment," he said, "if, on the contrary, they discourage it, or they chill it, the responsibility will be entirely theirs."

The doughty wartime leader of Great Britain said Russia's failure to evacuate Iran should be thrashed out in the council's forthcoming New York meeting, and he warned that an early and great test for the UNO would come from Russian pressure against Turkey over the Dardanelles.

Discloses Potsdam Facts
(Washington sources said last night that Iran already had informed the United States that it would ask the UNO to reopen the Iran-Russian situation at the Security Council meeting which opens here March 25.)

Churchill made the first public disclosure that America and Great Britain had offered Russia at the Potsdam conference "a joint guarantee of the complete freedom of the (Dardanelles) Straits in peace and war, whether for merchant ships or ships of war."

"To this guarantee Turkey would gladly have subscribed," he continued, "but we were told that that was not enough. Russia must have a fortress inside the Straits from which she could dominate Constantinople."

"A Very Great Test"
"But, this is not to keep the Straits open but to give power of closing them to a single nation. This is out of harmony with the principle urged by the United States representatives of the freedom of the great waterways of Europe, the Danube, the Rhine, and other rivers which run through so many different countries."

"At any rate, there was the offer, and I have no doubt it is still open, and if Soviet Russia still persists in putting pressure on Turkey, the matter must in the first instance be pronounced upon the United Nations Security Council."

"Thus early will come a very great test for the world organization on which so many, indeed I might say all, our hopes are founded."

Official Welcome
Churchill's speech climaxed a public reception that included a 10-mile trip through the city in an open car during a drizzling rain, and an official welcome by Mayor William O'Dwyer at City Hall, where he received the city's gold medal and distinguished service certificate.

He was given a ovation during most of his journey but there were occasional boos and there were organized demonstrations against him both at City Hall and outside the Waldorf-Astoria where he spoke before a distinguished audience of 2,000 persons, including many foreign diplomats.

Andre A. Gromyko, Russian ambassador, who arrived from Montreal a few hours before the dinner, did not attend although he had been invited.

News From The Farm Front

"Last night you slept through 575 forest fires" was selected as the best advertising headline in the 1945 forest fire prevention campaign. Full significance of the heading is gained by remembering there are on an average 210,000 fires each year in our dwindling woodlands—575 every 24 hours.

The world's rice supply is lower than pre-war supplies. Last year's crop, designated the 1945-1946 crop because in some parts of the world harvest runs over into part of the next year, is 10 percent below that of the previous year. The 1945-1946 harvest is given at 6,200 million bushels, as compared with 6,700 million bushels in 1942-1935 and 7,400 million bushels in the five years before World War No. 2.

Fordhook 242 and Early Market—both included among new vegetables in the All-American class last year—are deemed peers among bush Lima beans. Fordhook 242 sets pods well even in hot weather, a trait older varieties did not possess. Early Market is the earliest of all large seeded sorts, making it an ideal bean for early revenue purposes.

Tests indicate the new leaf variety of lettuce—Slobolt—is a vegetable addition to home gardens. It overcomes one of the long-standing weaknesses of lettuce strains—It thrives in hot weather. Formerly most varieties of leaf lettuce tended to send up seed stalks at the appearance of hot mid-summer weather. Seed of Slobolt may be scarce for another year.

How much lumber does the United States use in a year? The average consumption annually is—Enough to build walk 30 feet wide from the earth to the moon, built of boards cut one inch thick. One-half of this goes into building construction, says the Forestry Service, the other half into manufacture—boxes, furniture, millwork, toys, paper, etc.

While consumption of turkey meat has nearly tripled in the United States over the last 13 years, the demand has grown for smaller birds. Almost 85 percent of consumers ask for turkeys 13 pounds or less, dressed weight. The Beltsville White, Jersey Buff, Royal Palm and Nittany are among breeds and types recently developed for this smaller-bird trade.

And while on the subject of turkeys it is interesting to observe that 100 pounds of dressed turkey yields about 10 more pounds of edible meat than 100 pounds of dressed chicken. Lawn owners of the future may kill weeds, prevent fungus diseases of the sod and apply a fertilizer all in one operation, according to promising tests of the new weed killer—2, 4-D. Prea, a concentrate form of nitrogenous fertilizer, is added to the weed killer and thereby overcomes the detrimental effects of the latter. A suitable fungicide may be added in cases where fungous diseases exist.

Sodium fluoride, a poison used to combat several common house insects is proving the best remedy to control round worms of hogs. It is mixed at the rate of one part to 99 parts of dry ground feed, fed for a one-day period. A 95-percent extermination has been recorded, as compared with 50 to 75 per cent for the known remedies. Apparently no fatalities result because the chemical causes vomiting where an individual pig consumes too much.

On the carpet, near the door, was a white square of paper. She stooped and picked it up. There were some words written on it in pencil: "Do not leave this house. If you go they will kill me. Burn this. For God's sake, do not leave this house."

Grape Insects And Diseases

Among the numerous insect enemies and diseases attacking grapes in this region, first emphasis should be placed on prevention of black rot and complete control of aphids and grape berry moths. Fortunately, despite the fact that black rot and the berry moth take a heavy toll of grapes each year from most unsprayed vines, both troubles may be controlled by a program of sanitation and direct combat.

The fungus causing black rot may infect the leaves, shoots, blossoms and fruit. Like brown rot of stone fruits, black rot seldom attracts attention until the grapes are nearly half grown in mid-summer.

Corporation Tax Reports 'Strong'

Harrisburg, March 16 (AP)—Corporation tax reports, due this month, have come in "pretty strong" the Department of Revenue reported today, but it will be several months before it is determined if receipts measure up to budget estimates.

Pennsylvania corporations filed reports on the capital stock tax and out-of-state companies on the franchise levy.

These levies, together with the corporate net income tax which falls due April 15, form the backbone of the Commonwealth's financial structure. These taxes, along with similar business levies, are expected to bring in $173,355,000 during the 1945-47 biennium.

Chapter 15

"Well . . ." said Rogers, "it seems you were the last one to hear anything of this man. Now what time did he knock at your door?"

"I don't know," said Di. "About what time?"

"I haven't any idea what time it was."

"Well," said Rogers, "I guess we'll have to let the time go. What did Wren say to you?"

"He asked me to let him in. Then he stopped talking—suddenly."

"Did you hear him walk away?"

"No."

"You say you found blood under the door?"

"Yes."

"What did you do?"

"I—think I fainted."

"When you came to yourself, I suppose you called for help?"

"My aunt was there. I was—rather ill, feverish."

"I see," said Rogers. "Now what dealings had you had with Wren?"

"I never had any dealings."

"Any idea why he came to you?"

"No."

"That afternoon Wren brought you a private message from a man called Fennel?"

"It wasn't a 'private' message. He just told me that Mr. Fennel wanted to see me."

"You met Fennel in the wood?"

"Yes."

"What did you know about Fennel?"

"He brought me a letter from a friend."

"What's the name and address of the friend?"

Reluctantly she gave him Mrs. Frick's address.

"Can you describe him?"

"Why?" she demanded. "He has nothing to do with this."

"Don't be too sure of that!"

said Rogers. "Now, was this Fennel a man of medium height, slender, dark complexion and mustache, nice gentlemanly ways?"

"That description would apply," said Aunt Emma from the doorway.

"That's 'Smoky' all right," said Rogers. "That's just the way he works, too. What they call one of these society burglars."

"He's not a burglar," said Di, briefly. "It's ridiculous."

"Now, I understand that while you were talking to this Fennel, your uncle came, and there were words."

"He was angry because I'd left him alone. There weren't any words, except his own."

"But just the same he got so excited he had some sort of fit?"

"Attack. Heart attack," said Aunt Emma.

"Attack," said Rogers. "You then went to the house, leaving Fennel alone with your uncle? And Fennel was presently joined by Wren?"

"Yes, but—"

"Did you, at any time subsequent to this, see Fennel and Wren together?"

"I did," said Aunt Emma. "I found him out on the drive talking to Wren."

"Yes," said Rogers. "That's how he works. When he was alone with the old gentlemen he found that money in his pockets. But he was too smart to lift it then. No . . . He gets Wren to do the dirty work—"

"That's ridiculous!" cried Di. "Mr. Fennel—"

"He always makes a good impression," said Rogers. "No, He's 'Smoky,' all right. Depend on it! Now, if I can just use your telephone—"

"It's out of order," said Aunt Emma.

"Too bad! Old Gentlemen able to answer any questions?"

"It's not advisable for him to talk much," said Aunt Emma. "But he's so disturbed about the loss of the money, it may do him good to see that steps are being taken."

Aunt Emma addressed herself to Di.

"I've just put your breakfast ready in here," she said. "And there's a letter for you, that came this morning. I'll go with Rogers while he questions your Uncle Rufus."

"I am in need of money," Aunt Emma went on, "desperately in need of money to carry on my work. Neither Peter nor Miles are able—or willing—to help me. I have no one else. That is why I am going to tell you—that it would be kinder not to tell you."

Di waited, very pale.

"You know, of course, what your father was like," Aunt Emma went on. "But you can't remember your mother. She was one of the very few persons—she was perhaps the only

Major Held For Shooting On Train

Pittsburgh, March 16 (AP)—Supt. J. G. Sersch of the Pennsylvania Railroad police said a civilian by-stander was shot and seriously wounded early Friday during an argument between an army major and a merchant sailor on a train near Altoona, Pa.

The victim, Aaron Russansky, 45-year-old Chicago buyer, was removed to a Johnstown hospital. He was struck in the right chest by a .22 caliber bullet.

Sersch said Russansky told police the major fired at the sailor as Russansky entered the washroom on the railroad's Chicago-bound "Trail-blazer." The sailor stepped back, the bullet striking Russansky.

The officer was placed in custody of military police.

Railroad police detained the merchant sailor, Alfred R. Quirk, 28, of Chicago, as a material witness.

The name, Toronto, of Indian origin, means "A place of meeting."
